PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE:

Feb, 2020 - Jan, 2021

Printing Shop | Gulshan -e- Ghazi. Karachi

Graphics Designer

My father owns a printing shop that sells photocopying and stationery. During that time, I took full responsibility for the operations and also taught my elder brother about designing. He now handles the design work at the shop. After managing tasks such as CVs, visiting cards, pamphlets, social media posts, and design coordination, I decided to pursue a growth journey with a software company.

Feb - Jun (2021)

IVEM Software Company | RA Sidearea, Karachi

Frontend Developer OR HTML, CSS, Bootstrap & JS Developer

This was my first experience in this company. Under Sir Qasim mentorship, I started my career in programming and secured my first job in the web development industry. During this time, I successfully completed tasks assigned by the company. I worked as a front-end developer in this software house and also worked on WordPress website designing. Since I had a good experience with computer software, I also resolved IT department problems. After working with dedication for four months, I took my metric exams and then started my journey as a teacher.

Jun - Oct (2021)

Standard Computer Educators | Abidabad, Karachi

Head Master - Programing Teacher

I was appointed as the Head of the Computer Department in Standard Computer Educators, where my computer skills were recognized. During that time, I also wrote a book based on computer research, which is now being taught as a six-month course at the institute. My communication skills improved significantly in this institute. However, after three months of this journey, I had to leave this job due to financial difficulties.

And today, due to the gained experience, I am able to provide them with more work in less time.

TCF Foundation - (Part Time "Weekly 2h")

Graphics Designer

As I mentioned earlier, I have been a student of TCF (The Citizens Foundation). With the guidance of TCF teachers, I have been able to reach this point. TCF started a program called ADP (Advanced Development Program), and I received an offer to work on the development of this program. Since TCF has taught me a lot, I wanted to be a part of it for the same reason. For the past two months, I have been providing services as a designer for them, and my work has been highly appreciated. The appreciation I have received is such that it feels like they have never come across a creative designer like me before. And this is also a matter of joy for me.

Expanding on the previous context, running a printing shop involved various responsibilities such as managing inventory, interacting with customers, operating printing and photocopying machines, and ensuring the smooth functioning of the business. Additionally, I took on the role of teaching my elder brother the art of designing, equipping him with the necessary skills to create visually appealing materials for our customers.

Over time, our shop gained a reputation for providing high-quality services, including designing and printing professional CVs, eye-catching visiting cards, engaging promotional materials like pamphlets, and visually appealing social media posts. Managing these design-related tasks required attention to detail, creativity, and effective coordination to deliver the desired results. As I delved deeper into the world of design and its potential, I felt a strong desire to explore new horizons and challenge myself further. This led me to embark on a growth journey with a software company. Joining this new venture allowed me to expand my skill set, work with cutting-edge technologies, and contribute to innovative software solutions.

While my journey in the software industry continues, the experiences and knowledge gained from my family's printing shop have provided a solid foundation and a unique perspective on design and customer service. I am grateful for the opportunity to have contributed to my family's business and for the skills and insights it has imparted to me.
